5 Ideas:

- * Use the set in a small group. Pick a category and ask children to build an item that belongs in the category. For instance, if the category is food, children may build fruit or dessert. Ask children to explain why each item belongs in the category.
- * Use the set for creativity. Encourage children to select a building card and build the model on the card, for instance, the crab. Then ask them to build an original model of their own, for instance, a fish from their imagination, that relates to the first model. Describe the relationship.

Teacher Tips:

- The green border on the building cards indicates a less-challenging model, and the blue border indicates a more-challenging model.
- As children build their own, creative models, take photos and laminate them to create new, additional building cards.

- * Use the set for self-expression. Show children photos of famous sculptures. Ask children to work together in pairs to build their own sculptures. Discuss each sculpture and what it means.
- * Use the set for various themes, such as nature, animals, and community. For instance, discuss community, and then prompt children to build structures that are important in their community.
- * Use the set for problem solving. For instance, tell children a friend needs to cross a wide river. Encourage children to work together to build a solution, like a boat, bridge, or airplane.
